

Renaissance supports Omani students

MUSCAT: Fifteen aspiring Omani students and their families attended an international graduation ceremony in Muscat Hall at the Oman Chamber of Commerce and Industry recently.

The students were sponsored by Renaissance to study abroad and bring their newly certified skills and training to the developing hospitality economy, here in Oman, says a press release.

Each student has completed a two-year Advanced Diploma in Hospitality with the Colombo Academy of Hospitality Management (CAHM) at the William Angliss Institute, Sri Lanka Institute of Information Technology.

The ceremony was hosted by Renaissance and speakers included Stephen Thomas, CEO of Renaissance, Steven Bradie-Miles, CEO of CAHM and Professor Lakshman Ratnayake, chairman of the Sri Lanka Institute of Information Technology.

The particular commitment and dedication of the Omani students shone through in their results, with two receiving special awards for their performance at CAHM: Mohammed Salim Al Hajri, was recognised as the Best Student in Hospitality Operations/Finance Management and Ahad Abdullah

Al Jabri was recognised as Most Outstanding Graduate, due to her outstanding academic record (she scored a perfect 'A' in all 61 exams), as well as her leadership and management skills.

Al Jabri said: "I am truly honoured that I have been chosen as the outstanding student this year. I am sure that for all of my fellow graduates there have been times of stress that put us out of our comfort zones."

She continued: "And I would like to add a thank you to Renaissance for giving me this opportunity to add a lot to my professional life and our SME company, Meshan."
