

Wadi Racers

Wadi Racers are a type of snakes that is found in gardens. The Blind Snake is harmless, and is, in fact, a gardener's friend as it aerates soil and eats pests.

These snakes usually come up to the surface only at night, but is found in cultivation and spreads in flowerpots.

Tips:

- Take care and leave all the snakes alone
- They wont do any harm if you avoid them
- Take care where you put your hands and feet, especially in wadis, gardens, woodland and near rubbish and water
- Remove litter, creeping plants and rodents from around your house and seal all holes
- Avoid walking outside at night without light and shoes on
- If you get bitten wash the injury, keep the area still and at a lower level than the heart and keep calm
- Go to the hospital immediately for proper treatment
